The NHS in England wants to support people with cancer to live as well as possible.

We are carrying out a survey about the impact of cancer on people's quality of life. We would like to know how cancer may have changed your life and generally how you are feeling.

The information we collect from the survey will be shared across the NHS to help us improve services.

You may be invited to take part in this survey

You will be asked to complete a survey if you have had a breast, prostate or colorectal (bowel) cancer diagnosis around 18 months ago. You will receive an invitation to fill in the survey by post.

People with other kinds of cancers will be asked to fill in the survey from 2021.

The survey takes 5-10 minutes to complete and can be done online or on paper. You will be asked about your well-being.

You do not have to take part in this survey

Your medical care will continue in the same way whether you choose to take part or not.

Information about who works on the Cancer Quality of Life Survey

NHS England and NHS Improvement are working in partnership with the National Cancer Registration and Analysis Service (NCRAS).

NCRAS is responsible for cancer registration in England. NCRAS records information about every patient with cancer, including who they are, their diagnosis and the type of treatment they receive. This is done with special legal permissions and all the information is held in strict confidence.

If you agree to complete the survey, the answers you give will be collected by a company called Quality Health on behalf of NHS England and NHS Improvement. Your personal information will be kept safe by them, and your answers will be dealt with in confidence.

We will then link the answers you give in the survey to information about you and your cancer held in the NCRAS cancer registry. This will give us a better understanding of your experience of cancer.

How you can get in touch

Your survey responses will not be seen by any health professionals providing you with care. If you are worried about your health, or the way you are feeling, please get in touch with your GP or specialist nurse.
