

Stakeholder briefing

As you will be only too aware, the numbers of people testing positive for Covid-19 are rising across the country. Earlier this week, the Prime Minister announced new measures to try to reduce the spread of the virus – measures we must all support.

At present, we remain in standby, ready to care with compassion if we are needed. Should the situation change, we will, of course, let you know in line with our activation plan.

Our plans for alternative use during standby are developing well and we hope to have more detail to share with you about these in the next few weeks. Should we need to activate our hospital we will be able to stop these services quickly. Alongside this work, you may have noticed that we have been supporting our Severn region network providers by making our non-clinical facilities available for training, meetings and other events and will continue to do so.

We're making good progress with our 'winterisation' work - we are due to finish the works on schedule early next week. We thought you might like to see a few progress shots which we've put below.

Save the date!

We are delighted to be taking part in the autumn Bristol distinguished lecture series with our landlord and host, UWE Bristol. Join us on the evening of 14 October to hear panel members discuss 'responding to a national crisis - building the NHS Nightingale Hospital Bristol'

Panel members include:

- Professor Steve West CBE, Vice-Chancellor, President and Chief Executive Officer
- Marie-Noelle Orzel, former Chief Officer, NHS Nightingale Hospital Bristol
- Tim Whittlestone, Chief Medical Officer, NHS Nightingale Hospital Bristol
- David Snell, Operations Director, Kier

The event will take place online to support social distancing and starts at 6.30pm. Use the link below to register today!
