

Supporting patients to leave hospital

Caring Steps

  Together

Giving you confidence
to move forward

Helping people to leave hospital as soon as they are medically well enough is massively important, and getting it right means their journey to recovery can begin in the best possible way.

New resources will help you support your patients, their families and carers.